How did Covid-19 change cheerleading? The Fairless Falcon cheerleaders found out that cheering to an almost empty stadium was a monumental undertaking this school year. Although the girls were still able to practice, games without the Dirty Birds and other fans were stressful. Maintaining a positive attitude and an enthusiastic smile, they took on a challenge that the girls turned into a positive aura. The coaches were instrumental with helping them stay positive through all of the rough times. They ended up being the most impressive and influential organization in our school and always performed at the highest standards. The seniors led with style and grace, teaching the squad what cheerleading is all about. The underclassmen will benefit from the lessons they learned under their leadership. This group of girls deserve accolades for sharing their positive attitude throughout the season.
